Dear Eagle Board of Review:

I am delighted to be able to provide this character reference for Luke Killeffer, a long standing member of Troop 41 Abington. I have had the distinct pleasure of being Luke's Scoutmaster since he crossed over from Cub Scouts and have enjoyed watching him mature into the young man who comes before you today.

Luke has always exemplified both the Scout Law and Oath in his daily life and in how he comports himself during troop meetings and activities. He has always taken his leadership responsibilities seriously, and strives to work to the best of his abilities to fulfill his obligations.

There are others who can address how Luke fulfills his duty to God and his family. I have watched Luke grow and develop as a leader in our troop, and I had the pleasure of working with him closely during his tenure as Senior Patrol Leader. Despite whatever challenges present themselves, Luke always strove to make meetings and trips exciting and was always focused on making sure Scouts learned, earned advancement and had fun.

I could list examples of all the ways that Luke embodies the twelve points of the Scout law. But I think Luke speaks well for himself, and I will leave that to him. What I do want to point out is how, more than any other Scout I have worked with, Luke exemplifies Scout spirit. He is always quick to help, and does so without complaint. If something needs to be done, he will do it.

Luke is a fine example of all the qualities of an Eagle Scout, and in my humble opinion he is fully deserving of this great honor. It has been both a pleasure and an honor to serve him as his Scoutmaster, and I look forward to seeing him join the ranks of "Schultz's Eagles." Thank you for your consideration.

Yours in Scouting,
